

YAT acknowledges the contribution made to this production by Bernice Warren's Childrens Theatre, the help of Biddy Osborne in running the Box Office and thanks the Bar staff of TTC for organising and allowing us the use of these facilities.

"THE ROSES OF EYAM" is based on the true story of events which took place in that village three hundred years ago, with the actual names of those living there at the time, taken from the parish register. A number of those taking part this evening visited the village recently as part of the research for this production and saw the cottages and all the other places mentioned in the play for themselves. They still remain as an historic record of those remarkable events and those courageous people who are being portrayed on stage this evening.

YAT is available to any young person over the age of sixteen. Anybody interested in joining should telephone 979-7904 for information or leave their name and address with a member of the Front Of House staff.
